COURSE DESCRIPTION:
Application of toxicological principles in reproductive studies and instruction on the effects of toxicants on male and female reproduction, and on the developing embryo/fetus. Critical evaluation of reproductive toxicity studies and development of mechanistic approaches to understanding how chemical exposure can adversely affect reproduction.

COURSE LEARNING GOALS:
The students will
1) Acquire basic knowledge of reproductive and developmental actions of toxicants (PLG 3).
   □ Assessment: Three exams will cover the basics of reproduction, development, and the influence of a range of toxicants on these two intertwining processes.
2) Apply standard exposure models and risk assessment to assess the effects of a toxicant (PLG 3).
   □ Assessment: Exams will consist of questions that will involve specific examples of a reproductive toxicant and the impacts these compounds have on development and reproductive capacity.
3) Engage critical thinking skills to evaluate the literature and generate a review and/or an experimental hypothesis for oral presentation (PLGs 5 & 6).
   □ Assessment: Each student will present a 20-min presentation on a subject of their choice. Evaluation will be by the course coordinator and fellow students.

ASSIGNMENTS & ASSESSMENT:
EXAMS:
Three 80-min mid-term exams: 25% each x 3 = 75%.
Oral presentation: 15%

An email will automatically be sent to me.

GRADING
Grades will be calculated as follows: A = 90% or above, B+ = 86% - 89%, B = 80% - 85%, C+ = 76% - 79%, C = 70% - 76%, D = 60% - 69%, F = less than 60%

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE STUDENT
1. 100% attendance is critical. Please pay attention to the dates noted in the syllabus and clear all personal conflicts for attendance.
2. Print all lecture materials (posted on Sakai) and bring with you to class to take additional notes.
3. If something is unclear in class, ask questions immediately. DO NOT WAIT. Due to the pace of the lectures, key concepts that are missed early on will impact later learning.
4. You are responsible for all the information on this syllabus.

COURSE SYLLABUS

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
The university's policy on Academic Integrity is available at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy. The principles of academic integrity require that a student:

- properly acknowledge and cite all use of the ideas, results, or words of others.
- properly acknowledge all contributors to a given piece of work.
- make sure that all work submitted as his or her own in a course or other academic activity is produced without the aid of impermissible materials or impermissible collaboration.
- obtain all data or results by ethical means and report them accurately without suppressing any results inconsistent with his or her interpretation or conclusions.
- treat all other students in an ethical manner, respecting their integrity and right to pursue their educational goals without interference. This requires that a student neither facilitate academic dishonesty by others nor obstruct their academic progress.
- uphold the canons of the ethical or professional code of the profession for which he or she is preparing.

Adherence to these principles is necessary in order to ensure that

- everyone is given proper credit for his or her ideas, words, results, and other scholarly accomplishments.
- all student work is fairly evaluated and no student has an inappropriate advantage over others.
- the academic and ethical development of all students is fostered.
- the reputation of the University for integrity in its teaching, research, and scholarship is maintained and enhanced.

Failure to uphold these principles of academic integrity threatens both the reputation of the University and the value of the degrees awarded to its students. Every member of the University community therefore bears a responsibility for ensuring that the highest standards of academic integrity are upheld.
